

Citizen's Action Committee to oppose 744 Housing?

The Wilmington Board of Appeals is to reconvene next Tuesday to discuss the proposal of the Tambone Corp. of Reading to erect Low and Moderate Income housing, under the provisions of Chapter 744, the so-called Snob Zoning Law, on the banks of the Ipswich River, and off Woburn Street.

The Town Crier has been informed that the Barrows Auditorium 'will be packed' with members of a Citizen's Action Committee. These people will be prepared, so the story goes, to oppose the construction of the compartment-complex 'tooth and nail'.

The proposed housing complex was discussed Tuesday evening by the Board of Appeals and the Planning Board, during the regular planning board meeting. Present also were several high school seniors, members of the Student Government. They seemed to find the discussion quite interesting. One of those discussing the project was Carol Thomas, of Thomas Associates, planning board advisors.

Probably the most important statements came from the chairman of the Board of Appeals.

Bruce MacDonald told the planning board members that he had been reading, at home, the decisions of Justice Tauro, concerning the Chapter 744 Housing in Hanover and Concord. "In no way are you going to beat this" he said.

He informed the Planning Board that there have been no 'official' complaints received by the Board of Appeals from any Wilmington board - including the Board of Selectmen.

Mrs. Thomas discussed the case at length, much of the discussion being of an exploratory nature. A written report of the conversation is to be submitted.

Four principal points in her discussion concerned (1) The effect upon the Ipswich River, (2) The possibilities of difficulties with the sewerage system, (3) the noise level of Route 93, and (4) the traffic conditions of Woburn Street.

The proposed six story building for Elderly Housing was discussed.

Chairman Arthur Harding said he was against any housing for the elderly which was over two stories in height. He wondered what would happen in the event of a power failure.

Harding was joined by Bob Leahy, who wondered if there really would be adequate fire fighting facilities in a structure of such a height. Leahy wanted to check with the Medford Housing Authority about the experience in that city in high rise apartments for the elderly.

The Planning Board members also noted that there are provisions for participation by citizens, to screen admission by citizens to such housing projects. Apparently no one is interested was their reaction.

New Gun Law in Wilmington

NO SHOOTING, NO HUNTING. That's what the sign said, according to Carl Backman Jr. of Aldrich Road. He brought it into the Town Meeting as an exhibit, during the discussion of the gun By-Law.

None of the original lettering is left on the sign, and Backman told the voters that it had originally been posted less than three months ago, about 500 feet from his home. In back is selectman Danny Gillis, who has just been elected chairman of the board.

A new gun law, which takes effect in Massachusetts, on April 1, is no April Fool joke. A person carrying a firearm, without a license after that date, will go to jail for one year. The law even applies to air rifles and BB guns.

In Wilmington, this summer, there will be an added injury to the insult, in that a $50 fine will be imposed for firing any type of gun. This will be after the Attorney General has approved the gun control bylaw voted in the annual Town Meeting.

The new bylaw carried quite emphatically in the Town Meeting, by voice vote. Several amendments were added, to allow veterans' organizations to have firing squads (using blank cartridges) and to allow the use of some tools requiring blank cartridges.

Planning Board to check 1949 vote

Mill Road, in South Wilmington, off Chestnut Street, is not the finest road in Wilmington. It leads into the Garden of Eden, as the country side was known years ago, but the road is rough, and in many places very narrow.

A few weeks ago Atty. Joseph Courtney appeared before the Planning Board, seeking the right for a client to build some homes off Mill Road. He and his client were informed that no homes could be built without conforming to the Planning Board rules and regulations.

Monday night Mr. Courtney appeared before the Wilmington Selectmen, again on the same project. Mr. Courtney, this time, was appealing under the laws of an Official Map. There could be a special Board of Appeals for such cases, but Wilmington's selectmen have refused to allow such a board to be formed. When cases come up they act as the Board of Appeals, and such was the case Monday night.

Courtney said his client was prepared to put in a paved road 18 feet wide, and an eight inch water main. The board of selectmen raised some objections, and then voted to consider the case later.

Tuesday evening the Planning Board got to discussing the case. That board is unhappy about the selectmen acting as their own board of appeals.

The Planning Board members noted that the 'covering' statute, Section 81 of Chapter 41 of the General Laws had been accepted in Town Meeting in December, 1949.

Edward C Manning was the chairman of the Planning Board at that time, and the Planning Board wondered what the wording was, in that vote on Section 81. Could it be that the selectmen did not have the power to act as a Board of Appeals?

The next move is to ask the Town Clerk: Just what did the town vote, back in December of 1949.

Mass. Junior Conservation Camp

The Wilmington Conservation Commission is again accepting applications for the Massachusetts Junior Conservation Camp in Spencer.

The purpose of the two-week camp, which runs from June 22, 1975 to July 5, 1975, is to train the youths selected to appreciate natural resources, and how best to protect the environment that supports them.

Three boys between the ages of 14 and 17 will be selected by the Commission. Written application should be sent to the Wilmington Conservation Commission, Town Hall, Wilmington, Mass. 01887 no later than April 15, 1975. A personal interview will be arranged at a later date.

Wilmington Town Forest Some voters had their fingers crossed

Some Wilmington voters changed their minds, during the discussion on the establishment of a Town Forest, in North Wilmington, and others voted, the last time at least, with their fingers crossed. It was quite evident that some voters feared having the Federal or State government contributing to the cost of a Town Forest, and thus perhaps opening the land to anyone.

Land of the new North Wilmington Forest lies between Andover Street and Ballardvale

Street, and, as voted, comprises 122 acres. Included was the Brooks lot, so called, north of Camp 40 Acres, and the John Earl Dick lot, south of Camp Forty Acres.

The presentation was by Selectman James R. Miceli, and he has since been complimented on his presentation. Mr. Miceli had met with interested parties in the Town Hall on Thursday evening to hammer out a last minute agreement.

$62⁵⁰ tax rate

A probable $62.50 tax rate was announced by the Wilmington Finance Committee, last Saturday, at about 11:45 p.m. as the Wilmington Town Meeting completed its 1975 session, in two meetings.

Highlights of the Town Meeting was the voting down of industrial water extensions; the establishment of a North Wilmington Town Forest, 122 acres of land; the voting of definitions on "home occupations," Uses in Flood Plain districts, and Rights of Pupils; and an emphatic vote in favor of forbidding the discharge of firearms in Wilmington, after the article had been amended to the satisfaction of the voters.

There was a split decision on the two gravel bylaw articles. The town voted to allow Daniel Ballou in minimum sized house lot, near Gowing Brook on Park Street, and to sell 24,000 square feet of land, off Parker Street, to Kevin J. McMillan.

THANKS!

I would like to extend thank to my friends the voters of Wilmington and special thanks to Jim Miceli for supporting my article in the Town Meeting.

Personalities kill industrial water main action

The proposal to install water mains on Ballardvale Street, in the Town Meeting ran into several snags in last Saturday's meeting, and eventually the articles were withdrawn by the board of water commissioners. The fight started originally over a question of flat water rates, and eventually snagged on personalities which aroused the voters and caused a negative vote on Article 13.

The water commissioners then withdrew the next six articles, and Article 20.

Chairman Arnold Blake refused to continue, and said that the action of the voters would probably cost about $300,000 due to the effects of inflation, on the installation of water mains.

The Town Meeting was one hour late in starting, for lack of a quorum. The discussion started on the water articles, extension of water mains to an industrial area. The mains were to be paid for, in part, by betterments.

Arnold Blake discussed the problems in a general way, and Article eleven was moved.

One of the speakers uncorked a surprise. Mrs. Pat White brought up the water rates, and asked the voters to postpone action indefinitely, until a flat rate water rate had been instituted by the water commissioners.

This action, she said, had been requested by the Town Meeting of a year ago. Nothing had been done.

The editor of the Town Crier spoke on the fact that the League of Women Voters were being named, and he was surprised at the action. The LWV, he said, has always in the past very carefully prepared their material.

Neilson went on to say that Selectman Boylen and himself had discussed the problem of equal rates many times with the water commissioners.

Barbara Hooper spoke on the need of conserving water, and that water was a valuable resource.

Mrs. White spoke on a point of personal privilege, that she was speaking on her own, and not for the LWV. Neilson, too on a point of personal privilege, pointed out that the name of the League of Women Voters appeared on literature which had been given to the voters.

Dolores Marshall, president of the League, also spoke, against the article and for flat rates, to encourage conservation.

The article was voted, 112 to 50. Article 12 had no heavy discussion. The article passed, 117 to 47.

HEY! Those girls are filling this trench faster than we can dig it!

The fireworks resumed on Article 13.

The question of flat rates came up, and chairman Blake said he wanted enough time to "properly judge this thing." He promised that the water commissioners would seriously consider the problem.

Several persons spoke, some with an anti-industry attitude. Attorney Joseph Courtney arose to say that the water main was for more than industry, it was for homes as well.

A member of the finance committee arose to say he was always confused by lawyers. Courtney stood up and said it was always easy to confuse that finance committee.

The moderator jumped on Courtney, ruling he had no business to make such a remark. Courtney countered, saying that the moderator had a business of controlling the meeting.

Things had almost quieted down, after this exchange, when Selectman Gillis stood up and engaged in personalities. He discussed one of the owners of land, and alleged the owner made a lot of money from the town.

That was the final straw. The article lost 102 to 66, a two thirds vote being necessary, and Peter Enos jumped to his feet to move reconsideration. The article was dead.

Arnold Blake then withdrew the rest of the water department articles, Article 20 being withdrawn separately.

The Community Development Program

Peter Holzmeister, assistant town manager, has been working on a "Community Development Program" for Wilmington, a program which will probably participate in federal funds, for local improvements.

A meeting was held in the Woburn Street School on Monday. Only five persons showed up, and they were more interested in debating the Saturday Town Meeting than in discussing improvements of Wilmington.

Tuesday Mr. Holzmeister spent an hour with the planning board. Last night he was scheduled for an open session in the Mildred Rogers School.

Discussed Tuesday night were drainage system improvements, based on a report by Whitman & Howard, Engineers. Chairman Arthur Harding thought that Wilmington needed improvement on the old bridges for the railroads. He termed these to be the "most critical points," for improvement.

Also discussed was acquisition of neighborhood recreation areas, in housing developments; solid waste disposal facilities; housing for the elderly (Holzmeister reports that the Massachusetts Department of Community Affairs is issuing favorable decisions for Wilmington); a sidewalk construction program, with updating of the 1965 sidewalk report, and a program for the demolition of empty sub-standard buildings.

The Wilmington Selectmen had received, Monday night, an offer from the Boston & Maine Railroad, to sell the Shawshen Avenue bridge, and the Bridge Lane bridge, to the town, for $1 each, with the provision that the bridges be raised to a level of twenty feet and two inches above the tracks.

Chairman Harding said that this would be "the worst investment the town ever made."

He believed that there had been state legislation on the subject, and he was in favor of pedestrian bridges, but at Wilmington's own terms.

On flat rates

In the past year people have become accustomed to seeing zooming electric light bills, because of the energy crisis. Families, as the saying goes, can halve the use of electricity and see their light bill double.

At the same time a facility like the airport in East Boston can and does continue to have electric lights illuminating hundreds of acres of airport grounds. The airport light bills, of course, are expressed in commercial rates, which are a fraction of home or domestic rates.

It is enough in these days to get any householder upset. Utility rates are devised by men who are experts in the art, and the common homemaker seems to be a by-product of their thinking.

Yet to change utility rates is not easy. It is not accomplished by mere wishful thinking. The Town of Wellesley recently did something about getting a flat rate for electrical energy. This column is not prepared to discuss that.

Water rates, and sewer rates, too, have the same problems, or nearly so.

To further complicate matters, some utilities are municipally owned. It is difficult to explain to the residents of an area served by such a utility why an industrial rate should be different from a residential rate. That is like stepping on certain stockholders' toes.

In Wilmington there is a water and sewer department. It is municipally owned, and operates under the provisions of a state charter granted in 1923. The commissioners, who are appointed by the town manager are capable and honest men. They operate in a manner of all utilities, but with the idea that their ultimate responsibilities are to the town.

There have been discussions about rates - flat rates, and rates that are set as demanded in good utility management. Selectman Boylen, the editor of the Town Crier, and Christian Bachman, chairman of the finance committee have all discussed the problems with the water commissioners, not in the heat of a town meeting, but rather in the relative calm and quiet of a water commissioner's meeting.

The three men do not present exactly the same arguments, but there are similarities. The commissioners courteously listen, but do not agree. It must be agreed that to arrive at a solution that will satisfy all men is not an easy thing to accomplish.

In recent months the commissioners have found themselves to be on both sides of the fence.

A new sewer main was installed during the summer of a year ago, up as far as Eames Street. The money was advanced by the federal government.

There are always strings to federal funds. In this case the water and sewer commissioners had to charge a flat rate for sewer services - almost exactly what Messers Bachman, Boylen and Neilson have been arguing about water.

A suit has been instituted, in the courts, by one of the firms using the new sewer. That firm contends that the rates are unfair, because there is no volume discount.

Thus, the reader will note, Wilmington's water and sewer commissioners are busy defending both sides of the same fence.

They charge utility rates for water, and get assaulted in the town meeting, and they charge, pursuant to federal orders, flat rates for sewerage, and one of the local firms hauls them into court. Their's is not an enviable position.

Summer science program for high school students

Wilmington High School Mathematics, during the summer of 1975.

The Foundation seeks to give high school students an experience with college level instruction and investigative laboratory work. It seeks to stimulate their scholarly development, and to further encourage development of similar programs, with other sources of support.

The projects offered are of various types, and have lengths of from four to twelve weeks. The majority offer instruction in one or more subjects, such as biology, physics, economics, and mathematics. Others in effect make the students junior members of a team actively engaged in scientific problem-solving, under the direct supervision of senior scientists.

Many projects combine these two approaches by offering both classroom work and involvement in investigative-type laboratory experiences. Admission to these projects is to be determined by the sponsoring institutions. In general selection is based on scholastic ability, science motivation, and the completion of specific high school courses in science and mathematics.

Strong preference is to students in the 11th grade (junior year of high school). There are funds to help students to meet part or even all of the expenses.

Applicants will have an opportunity to make their financial needs known. Mr. Eisenberg has more information on the projects.

Wilmington Town Forest

One point in which he was unable to get agreement was on Federal participation (funding). There were those who did not want such funding, nor state funding, for fear of federal or state rulings which would take control of the forest out of local hands.

Vandals and motorcyclists were feared, by officials of Camp Forty Acres, which has several times suffered the depredations of this type of individual. That fear showed up in the vote in the Town Meeting.

Miceli, Saturday afternoon, presented the argument that this was probably the last chance to take the land for the "enjoyment of future generations." He told the Town Meeting that "no reimbursement was guaranteed."

Miceli told the Town Meeting that none of the land of Camp Forty Acres was being taken, and none would be included in the Town Forest.

The cost to Wilmington he said, put in terms of ten year bonds, would be 17 cents annually, on the tax rate.

Madelyn McKie rose to say that federal funds would be available, as long as the uses were not incompatible. This did not cheer the people backing Camp Forty Acres.

Mrs. McKie went on to explain some of the points of Chapter 744, the "Snob Zoning Law," so called. If this land was taken out of its present status and made into town owned land there would be less "need" for low cost housing, according to that law, Mrs. McKie said. "This is a way we can reduce our 744 impact."

Arthur Spear of the finance committee told the Town Meeting that Wilmington takes the eminent domain law "too lightly." Mr. Spear cited the 65 acres owned by John Earl Dick of Bedford. He did not name Dick, but said that the gentleman was trying to preserve the property for his grandchildren, and had it in a trust fund, until 1989. According to Spear, Dick had no objection to Wilmington citizens enjoying the use of the land.

Selectman Miceli did not agree with Mr. Spear.

Bruce Peters arose, and discussed the taking last summer, in East Wilmington. It was, he said, "one of the greatest things" the town had done. "If we want this land, go ahead and take it." The land, Peters said, would eventually become housing. "If you don't want the tax rates to go up, you've got to take this!"

Selectman Dan Gillis told of a dinner he had attended in Tyngsboro, in which he implied that a person who owned the land in question had discussed the possibility of a gravel pit there. Gillis said the town forest should be "at least 154 acres."

Attorney Tom Brown of Medford, representing, he said, the Robbins Realty Trust (land off Ballardvale Street), said that the trust was seeking to rezone for industry, and implied that the money being voted would not be sufficient to pay the damages.

Attorney Joseph Courtney was against the use of state or federal funds, citing the previous damages to Camp Forty Acres.

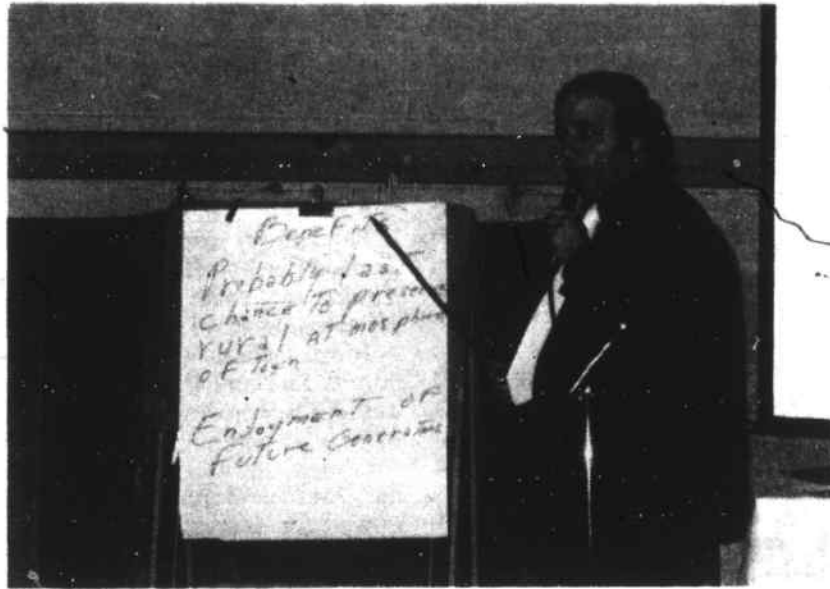

Evelyn Kaminski, the lady who is in charge of Camp Forty Acres arguments were by attorneys and they are really only interested in one thing. There was a roar of laughter.

There were 133 aye votes, and 66 nay. The motion had lost by three votes (2/3 vote for eminent domain takings).

Miceli asked for a reconsideration, saying that he wanted to discuss the question more. The vote carried.

Selectman George Boylen spoke. The town, he said, had a good appraisal by a good appraisal firm. He thought the cost cited was a "fair figure," and warned that the town is growing.

SELECTMAN MICELI: Presenting arguments on the Town Forest.

this year, spoke against the use of federal and state funds. "It is all we can do to maintain 40 Acres, on account of the intruders."

Arthur Bureau, of the conservation commission, assured the Town Meeting that there could be state and federal funds. He was in favor of the article.

Jean Pederson spoke in favor of the article, saying that it would reduce the "open space" in Wilmington counted in the "low cost housing."

Mike Caira, former selectman, was against the article. He predicted the ultimate cost would be $5 thousand an acre, or $600,000, plus increased needs of police protection and fire protection.

Alice Papaliolios of the conservation commission told the Town Meeting that the commission owns 200 acres of land and "none of it is invaded by intruders." There is, she said, more trouble with school kids and neighbors.

Miceli summed up. His last argument was that most of the Mrs. McKie warned of the impact of Route 93, and 129. The MBTA would be coming to that corner, she said, and the pressure of population would be five times greater than it is now.

Dr. Francis Sullivan, now school committee member, didn't "think we should be bullied by outsiders." "In interest of Camp 40 Acres, please buy this," he said.

Spear spoke against the taking.

Gillis spoke in favor. Anne Mahoney of Oakdale Road spoke: "All you can think of is money?" Walter Kaminski was the last speaker.

The vote was at 5:13 p.m. Some of those who had feared federal rulings had changed their vote. This time the vote was 164 in favor and 71 against, and the motion had carried.

Hearing program due for Tewksbury residents

William R. McMenimen, director of public health in the town of Tewksbury has announced an exciting new hearing conservation program for Tewksbury residents in cooperation with the Boston Guild for the Hard of Hearing, beginning April 8 and 9.

Screening tests of hearing for adults will be given in the Guild's new $40,000 completely equipped mobile unit, staffed by a highly trained non-commercial audiometric technician under the supervision of a professionally qualified clinical audiologist from the Guild which is licensed by the Massachusetts Department of Public Health. Early detection and treatment of hearing loss often can greatly alleviate the problem. Volunteers acting as receptionists are Elaine Winsor and Public Health Nurses from Lowell Visiting Nurse Association will follow up test failures to aid them in obtaining medical assistance, if needed.

The mobil unit will be located at the rear of the Tewksbury Fire Station, Pleasant Street, on April 8 and 9. The hours of testing will be 10 am to noon and 1 to 4 p.m. The fee will be $1.00.

The Boston Guild for the Hard of Hearing is a long established hearing rehabilitation center. It is fully accredited in audiology by the American Board of Examiners of the American Speech and Hearing Association and a member agency of the National Association of Hearing and Speech Agencies. The Guild also shares in the United Way of Massachusetts Bay.

Patrolmen earn solons' praise

Tewksbury selectmen have praised two patrolmen who aided a Tewksbury youth severely beaten off Whipple Road.

Town fathers cited patrolmen James Luz and Paul Doherty for aiding Stephen R. Fales, who was so severely beaten that he required treatment in the intensive care unit at St. John's Hospital in Lowell for several days.

Police are investigating the beating, which was allegedly dealt the James Street youth by four or more other persons who allegedly jumped into his car on Main Street after he picked up one of them, who was hitchhiking.

Selectman Joseph J. Whelan called for the citation, stating the 18-year-old youth's father, Richard Fales, claimed their quick action may have saved his son's life.

Dear Larz:

The following is simply a tribute to Nero, our dog.

Nero, a gentleman dog, who made our life fuller by living with us.

Nero was one of America's favorite breed, a Heinz-57 different kinds, never a mutt.

We chose Nero at the Humane Society in Lowell. We went there so that an unwanted pup would be wanted.

Nero was in a cage with a vocal family of white and brown Beagles. He was a small black ball pushed back into a corner. His eyes pleaded for love. We asked the attendant to please bring him out for closer examination.

Once we held him, he was ours, even though he had a very sore spot on his muzzle. We were told we could return him if our vet found the spot incurable.

The vet took a small scraping from the sore. It was curable. Someone had burnt him, pressed a lit cigarette to his face.

That was in April 1971. He grew more handsome with each passing day. He was strong, bold, fairly obedient. As he grew, we realized he would always appear formally dressed.

He held his head at a jaunty angle, his ears high. He wore a silky black coat and tail. A splash of white at his neck appeared to be a bow tie: a gentleman in full dress.

Almost every small child stopped to talk with him and pat his head. They were his friends.

He didn't get along as well with the high school group. Perhaps it was the cigarettes they puffed as they sauntered by.

No chain could hold him. He was hit several different times when he tried to make the cars slow down. He won't be hurt again.

Nero died Sunday as we drove for help to the Animal Hospital, his head cuddled by Dee's loving hands, his body warmed by a blanket.

Sincerely,

Irene W. Silverman

Baptist choir to present cantata

"The greatest and most indispensable ingredient in all the world is love. The greatest single fact in all human history is Calvary, where God's 'no greater love' for mankind was profoundly and eloquently expressed, in the vicarious death of His Son.

"What other theme has inspired more music, poetry, painting, or other creative art than that of God's love for a wandering world? For me it was a joyous privilege indeed to be able to write another cantata using this glorious theme."

John Peterson, 1958

This cantata will be presented in its entirety by the choir of the Wilmington Baptist Church to the glory of God on Easter Sunday night at 7:30 in the church sanctuary.

The choir is under the direction of Robert Gedney, and will be accompanied by Linda Gedney, pianist, and Priscilla Gedney, organist.

The public is cordially invited. No admission will be charged.

Dear Larz:

It seems as though all we hear about your youth today are the bad things: "They did this, or they did that." Rarely do we seem to hear about the admirable activities that our young people undertake. Well, today I would like to mention the community accomplishments of the Wilmington High School Key Club, which is sponsored by the Wilmington Kiwanis Club.

The Wilmington High School Key Club was started four years ago for members of the high school student body. Since the club's foundation the members have engaged in many unselfish projects. They have solicited toys for orphans, provided aid for the Chelsea fire victims, and been involved in school beautification at Wilmington High School - to name just a few examples.

Some of the current projects the Key Club has instituted during this school year include providing fruit baskets for Wilmington's elderly, painting school lockers in a rainbow of colors, assisting the Red Cross blood drive, soliciting funds during the scholarship campaign and conducting a continuous recycling program.

Some of the most active and enthusiastic members in the club include (in alphabetical order): Art Bayler, Roger Hamson, John Imbimbo, George Lingenfelter, Ed Reynolds and John Viola.

These members have been a great asset to Willis Lyford and Ken Leavitt, the club's senior officers, who have provided fine leadership and participation in all of the club's thoughtful activities.

Dear Larz:

One of the results of last Saturday's (March 15) Town Meeting was the passing of Article 39 making Wilmington a closed town for shooting. We would like to comment on this new bylaw for the benefit of other towns considering making the same mistake.

First, it was passed on the use of pure emotion rather than common logic. There are many existing laws covering the use of firearms where the damage to property and the threat to life are involved. It is a matter of simply enforcing these laws. The proponents of this bylaw stated that it was impossible for the police to catch the persons violating these laws. We suggest that the police should use more discretion in their approach (i.e., no sirens), should also watch for patterns (such as every Sunday), and take their duty in enforcing laws, protecting the people involved, more seriously.

Furthermore, the endangered residents making complaints about shooters should take pictures of the violators, take down license plate numbers, act as witnesses to the violations, and, in general, do everything in their power to help the police prosecute these offenders. If the firearms regulations are not applicable in a given situation, then the trespassing laws, which are just as harsh, should be strictly enforced.

A more logical, unemotional solution for this problem could not only be the zoning of areas for hunting, such as the towns of Littleton and Weston have done, but also the marking by signs of safe hunting areas. One of the best solutions, which is commonly practiced by responsible shooters, is to police themselves and report violators misusing firearms (those who fire at houses, water tanks, town signs, etc.).

While bylaw No. 39 does include a penalty for the negligent offenders (many of whom are from out of town), it directly penalizes the responsible hunters and shooters of Wilmington. A nationally recognized sport must be deprived from our townspeople.

This bylaw also disqualified our town from being restocked annually with mammals and fowl by the Department of Natural Resources.

We voted for a new, large town forest, but then deprive it of stocked animals. We ask: Is that fair?

In conclusion, one must question whether it has hindered and restricted both the adding of one more law has actually helped the residents in need or whether it has hindered and restricted both the town and its responsible citizens.

The distributor in your car directs the secondary current from the induction coil to the various spark plugs of your engine in their proper firing order.

Sometimes the timing in the distributor needs to be adjusted, and sometimes the breaker points need to be set. The points are very hard worked components in your car. If they are not properly adjusted, they will not last as long, as they sometimes burn out from constant surges of electricity.

Your automotive needs will be properly attended to by the professional mechanics at WILMINGTON FORD, 275 Main St., Rte. 38, Wilmington, 658-6800. Is your Homeowner's Insurance Costing Too Much?

In these days of high prices the smart consumers are really sharpening their pencils and looking for the best buy for their dollar. The same should apply to your homeowner's insurance policy.

Have you checked to see how much the cost of your homeowner's insurance has increased over the years?

Why don't you have us look over your policy at no obligation on your part. We'll be glad to show you what we have to offer. Our policy holders have found out that not only can they save money, but that they also receive direct personal service by doing business with us.

Library to have Easter Parade

There will be crazy hats galore in the Children's Room at the Wilmington Memorial Library on Wednesday afternoon, March 26 from 2:30 to 3:30. Children of all ages will come to make hats for the library's Easter Parade.

More conventional headgear - sunbonnets, hard hats, Panamas and helmets will be there to try on.

Creative talents will be given free rein when the children design original headpieces from odds and ends, and bits and pieces gathered by the children's room staff. Egg cartons, paper plates, scraps, material and paper, will be recognizable as they parade around the library atop the children's heads at the climax of the afternoon's activities.

Children to discuss Laura Ingalls Wilder Books

Joyce Danis, assistant librarian at Tewksbury's Patten Public Library has invited children in grades four through six to join a group which will discuss the Laura Ingalls Wilder books. This group will meet on Monday afternoons from 3:15 to 4:15 p.m., beginning March 24.

Last fall when NBC brought one of Laura Ingalls Wilder's stories, Little House on the Prairie, to the television screen, interest in her books greatly increased. At the first meeting, Ms. Danis will show the children actual photographs of Laura and her family, a replica of her doll Charlotte, and a map tracing the travels of the Ingalls family. These materials were obtained from the Laura Ingalls Wilder Museum in Mansfield, Missouri.

This discussion group should be a fun learning experience, and children in grades four through six are urged to attend. It is not necessary to have already read any of the books in order to join the group.

ACLD program Tuesday, March 25

Wilmington Youth Hockey

Mite B (17-7-2)...The B's rolled over North Reading 6 - 0. Dave Fuller opened the scoring with the game winner early in the first period with the assists going to Dave Richards and John Robinson. The B's struck twice more before the first period ended on goals by Greg Rogers (assisted by Stephen Raso and Kenny Richtler) and David Fuller (assisted by John Robinson and Dean Calaruso).

Eric Berger opened the scoring in the second frame assisted by Peter Oikle and Jimmy Taylor. Peter Oikle then added a tally assisted by Eric Berger. David Fuller completed the scoring in the third period with an unassisted goal. The line of Doub Coolberth, Scott Fuller, Danny Kane and Eric Cornish kept the pressure on the opponents with some good shots on net, cornerwork and backchecking.

The B's complete their regular season on Saturday as they take on South Boston at 10:10 a.m.

Squirt BI (21-3-1)...The Wilmington BI's defeated Tewksbury in last Sunday's league game by a score of 4 - 3. The score does not indicate the quality of the game as the BI's outshot their opposition 31 - 12 including seven shots by the line of John Robson, Bob Magliozzi and Robbie O'Connell in less than one minute without a score. Lady Luck took the day off, at least from the BI's. Ed Harding scored twice with assists going to Jim Smith on the first goal, and to John LaLiberte and Jeff Brown following some superb passing on the second goal.

Bob Curran accounted for goal number three following some hard work by his line mates, Chris Turner and Ray Durling with an assist going to Chris Turner. Ray Durling scored the game winner with assists to Curran and Turner again following up another strong two way effort.

The BI's face some stiff competition this weekend as they play South Boston on Saturday and Haverhill on Sunday.

Pee Wee BI (15-4-7)...Last Tuesday, the BI's played Medford I to a 1 - 1 tie. The seventh tie of the year.

Following a scoreless first period, Medford scored first at 8:11 of period two. Wilmington's lone goal came at 11:34 of the third period from Ricky Zambarnardi assisted by Jamie Boudreau. With 1:34 left in period three and needing all points possible in their attempt to catch first place Wakefield, Coach Kidd pulled his goalie and while the team kept the pressure on they did not score.

The next game will be played against Somerville on Saturday, March 22.

Pee Wee BII...Dick Gunn's Pee Wee B II's met Wilmington Pee Wee BI's a week ago Saturday and ended up in a tie game, 2 - 2. First goal was scored by Jamie Shepard in the second period, assisted by Scott Richard and Terry Desmond.

The BI's 2 - 1 lead didn't last as Keith MacDonald in the third period tied the game with assists from Shawn O'Donoghue and Mike Sullivan. Excellent team work was shown and excellent goal tending by Bobby Doucette and Stretch Storer.

The Pee Wee B II on Tuesday March 18, Dick Gunn's boys defeated Billerica 4 - 3.

First period goal was scored by Mike Sullivan assisted by Bobby DiSciullo. In the second period, with Billerica leading 2 - 1, Wilmington's Jamie Shepard scored to tie the game with assists from Scott Richard and Terry Desmond.

In the third period Jamie Shepard scored once more, assisted by Scott Richard and Mike Moran, putting Wilmington in the lead. Billerica came back with a goal, again making it a 3 - 3 game.

Keith MacDonald scored with only minutes left of the game, unassisted, putting Wilmington ahead for a 4 - 3 victory.

Excellent team work and goal tending again was displayed by the boys. The next game will be at Wilmington's Youth Ice Arena against North Reading at 10:50 pm on Saturday.

Wilmington Bantam A's runners up

Last weekend the Bantam A's traveled to Cranston, Rhode Island for the first annual Edgewood Cup Tournament for the benefit of the C.F. Fund.

Teams were entered from Connecticut, Massachusetts, New Jersey, New York and Rhode Island.

The total games played in the tournament was 23. Wilmington reached the championship game by defeating the runners up in the Rhode Island State Tournament, the Rhode Island state champs, the Connecticut state champs and the first place team in their own home division, Reading.

Two of the above games were decided in sudden death overtime. In the first overtime game with Reading it was Paul Godfrey who scored the winning goal with five seconds left on the clock. On a perfect pass from Ed Sheehan in the corner. In the overtime game with the Rhode Island champs it was the same exact play with Mike Carlin scoring from Bill Blaisdell.

In the final game, Wilmington was defeated by Lexington, 6 - 3.

Having to settle for the silver skate trophy instead of the gold was the only disappointment the team suffered.

The boys game a one hundred percent effort for the entire five games played. Goal scorers were Bill Blaisdell with eight; Mike Carlin with five; Paul McMahon with two and Tom Gracia, Gregg Moulton, Ed Sheehan, Jay Walden, Tom Bavota and Paul Godfrey with a goal apiece. Assists were credited to Bill Blaisdell, six; Tom Gracia, five; Brian Tighe, four;

A GAS DRYER SAVES YOU WORK ... TIME ... MONEY!

People have been buying gas dryers for years—and with good reason too. They save walking, lugging, lifting . . . they save time and best of all, Gas Dryers save money! Economical Gas dryers such as Speed Queen, Maytag or Whirlpool are faster—they start instantly with no warm-up wait. Safe too even for delicate fabrics—a Gas dryer blows away moisture instead of baking things dry.
Visit the showroom at the Lowell Gas Co.—see why more people are switching to Gas dryers.

New mysteries at Wilmington Library

Bat Out of Hell by Francis Durbridge involves the murder of a wealth estate agent by his wife and her lover. They congratulate themselves for disposing of the evidence completely. Their perfect crime, however, has one imperfection.

Have Mercy Upon Us by Tobias Wells deals with an unsuccessful mystery writer, low on funds, who follows a newspaper ad to a haven for wayward writers. There she finds four other writers and a series of deaths which begin some bizarre events.

Encyclopedia of Chinese Food and Cooking by Wonona Chang contains a thousand recipes adapted to American kitchens, half of which are printed in English for the first time. There is a special chapter devoted to nutritional guidance which includes recipes totally safe for ulcer, diabetic, low-sodium and low-calorie diets.

Illustrated Dictionary of Practical Pottery by Robert Fournier collects into an easily available form much of the practical information now open to craft potters. Included are analyses, charts, descriptions, definitions, formulas, materials and equipment, recipes and terms used in ceramics.

The Beer Book by Will Anderson is entertaining, informative, and suggests that collecting breweriana is a great pastime. This fully illustrated book is a colorful tribute to American breweries, and their one-thousand-and-one collectibles.

Lovetrail by L. Sprague De Camp is a biography of a modern master of horror-fantasy writing. Hailed by some as the equal of Poe, H.P. Lovecraft died in poverty and obscurity but is now a best seller. His life was filled with paradox, irony and bizarre idiosyncrasy.

Wilmington homeowners are more curious about police cruisers than they are about strange cars in the neighborhood.

Inspector John Harvey of the Wilmington Police said that in two house breaks this week, neighbors have later called the police, not to volunteer information, but to ask why a cruiser was at the house.

In each case the neighbor said that they had seen a strange car at the house, but they had not paid attention to it. In each case the value of the property taken was substantial.

Harvey declined to identify the locations of the house breaks, saying that it was not his point to embarrass the people involved. He said that house breaks were so common now that they are no longer news. The news, he said, is the number of them.
